Some things to note...

- Camp shirts are worn daily. See reverse side for explanation.
- Pioneers wear Pioneer tee shirts.
- All Pioneers should have a rest mat for camp. Parents may purchase a Coleman Country mat or provide one of their own.
- We ask that campers not bring backpacks or fanny packs to camp; however, we make them available because some children like to use them outside of camp.

Why Camp Uniforms?

If camp is a distinctive community, it makes perfect sense for kids to have their own kind of dress here – it distinguishes them from the GAP and from all other styles “du jour.” We like when our kids say, through their clothing, we are a part of something! It is a way to band together, to embrace each other, and to exhibit pride in the community they call their own!

In the great democracy of the camp community, we have a wonderful opportunity to say we are one family. We encourage our campers to wear T-shirts emblazoned with the spirit of camp, representing a bond to each other.

At a time when every child’s body is growing at a different pace, isn’t it nice to say, “no matter?” When younger children aren’t sure what to wear, isn’t it nice to think, “no matter?” When older campers are faced with the challenges of fitting in, isn’t it nice to pronounce, “no matter?”

It’s not an issue of individuality or conformity; rather, it’s a question of belonging. Wearing uniforms also helps kids relate better, we have been told by child development experts. It’s liberating, it’s freeing; it makes kids more accepting of their own bodies and less likely to be teased.

Our camp tees help punctuate that we are a separate culture, one that tells the story of a community of connections and equality.
